Seventy-Two Hours... ProTeam's Year End Sale ends in seventy-two hours. All cars must be funded by December 31st, 2008. Personal and company checks are welcomed. Pursue your desires as you only go around once and classic Corvettes, over the last three decades, have proven to be great investments and the next decade will be no different. Check them out at ProTeamCorvette.com/YearEnd2008.html.

Corvette Prices Over The Last 3 Decades... have a proven analytical track record that has now been illustrated by author, Terry Michaelis, and put in graph form and come from actual sales made by the author. There were many highs and lows during this 30 year span, ie: recessions, wars, high interest, low interest, many elections, October '87 stock market melt down, '89/'91 classic & sports car boom/bust, end of the cold war, tech market boom/bust, 9/11, mortgage boom/bust, an impending global financial zero hour, and now the September '08 Wall Street/Big Three meltdown, and the Washington bailout. Time will only tell what the next decade has in mind for classic car and in particular Corvette prices, as many now are pursuing their needs over their desires and with any reward there is a degree of risk. The classic Corvette is a proven investment for both pocketbook and garage, take advantage of the current lull in the Corvette price storm and don't get left behind this time around. Check out an example of Corvette Prices over the last 3 decades.
