Barn Found L-88... Wow! They do still exist and this L-88 was a one owner car until September 24th, 2008. One of two known Red/Red 1968 L-88 convertibles of the total production of only 80 L-88's in 1968 and a total production of only 216 L-88's produced in all years (1967, 1968, & 1969). Fully certified and affirmed a true Red/Red L-88 convertible by the "duck test"

Certification: This car is without a shadow of a doubt a factory produced and delivered L-88 Corvette as determined by the "duck test" and the "duck test" in this instance, due to the unrestored and relatively unmolested nature of this Barn Found L-88, is so overwhelming that it negates the need for factory or dealer documentation as the car is the focal point and not any paper or plate whether real or imaginary. Now there is a some food for thought that I am sure will fire-up some sleeping cell/chat room. Questions/comments? Email tmichaelis@charter.net or terry@proteamcorvette.com.
